

Cranford Park Academy

Kevin O'Donnell Community Governor

Kevin O'Donnell was born in west London and went to school in Ealing. He went to journalism college in the North East of England and has worked for the past 30 years as a journalist, most recently as a financial journalist and publisher.

He started his journalism career on the local Gazette newspaper series and covered Hayes among other local areas. He has also lived in the Hayes area in the past and commuted for many years into central London from Hayes & Harlington Station.

He spent 17 years working for the Financial Times group as a journalist and senior editor and now runs a business publishing company in the borough of Hillingdon, where he still lives.

He joined the Cranford Park Academy Council in 2017 as a Community Governor.