Ravinder Chander

My name is Ravinder Chander, I am in my 5th year of being a parent governor at Cranford Park Academy. I have 2 boys, one still at Cranford Park Academy and one in his first year at secondary school having been through Cranford Park Academy.

Born, raised and educated in West London, I left school with 11 A – C GCSE's and went on to gain 3 A Levels. I started working for the government covering a temporary post, 16 years later, I continue working for the government and having been through various grades, I now manage a team of 11.

The reason I became a parent governor is that I have high ambitions for the future generation. I want them to do bigger and better things for themselves than generations gone by. For this to be possible, primary education is vital. I believe that if we give children the right start, with the right basic skills for life they will have many opportunities opened to them in the future.'
